PRISONERS LIBERATED. Some time during Sunday night Miss Etta Aldridge, daughter of the sheriff of Blunt county, Ala., unlocked the jail and liberated two prisoners, Louis Gur-icy, charged with musder, and Mayburn Murphree, held on sentence for a minor Murphree, held on sentence for a minor offense. The girl accompanied the prisoners in their flight, or at least one of them. The cause of them act is supposed to be love for Mayburn Murphree, wlo is an exceedingly handsome young man of good address. For some months he had been an inmate of the jail, and it had been noticed that the comely daughter of the sheriff often lingered at the bars to talk to him. On Sunday night the sheriff was away in the country on husisheriff was away in the country on business. His daughter, Miss Etta, had charge of the keys. She retired Sunday

Investigation showed that two of the tops price per in the fail had assured. tour prisoners in the jail had escaped.

Miss Etta was not to be found, and then the full significance of the conversation

brough the bars with Mayburn Murphree became apparent.

Louis Gurley, charged with murder, who was the beneficiary of the girl's ove for Murphree, is accused of one of the most brutal crimes in the history of Oneonta. About a year ago the dead oody of an aged woman, Mrs. Vaughau, was found at her residence one morning. The head had been scalped and the body bore evidence of brutal mutilation.

Charged with her murder, Gurley was arrested, and his case is pending trial.
Mayburn Murphree, the attractive prisoner who seems to have bewitched the fair keeper of the jail, had already been convicted and fined $700. His

MR. NEWHOUSE.

After more than a year of doubt and mystery concerning the whereabouts of oung Charles H. Newhouse, the cattle dealer from Culpeper county who dis-appeared in Baltimore on Christmas morning of 1901, during which period many reports have been circulated, but at only one time has there been any-thing like positive information to be had, advices have been received from Johandesburg, South Africa, which sets all doubts as to his present location at rest. Under date of December 3 last Hon. William B. Gordon, United States consular agent at Johannesburg, writes and sets the question at rest. In his letter Mr. Gordon states that he has seen young Newhouse upon several occasions since he arrived in Johannesburg. He further states that the young man is apparently njoying good health.

Despite the fact that more than a car has elapsed since the young man lisappeared, after alighting from a car Baltimore presumably to go to the Howard House, where he was registered, nothing definite has ever been learned of his movements, although his family sometime since received word that he had reached Johannesburg, after some hard experiences. Then he seemed to sink out of sight again and to remain a young man of mystery until the present advice that he is still in Johannesburg and in good health.
